DETAILED METHODOLOGY

- The survey was conducted on behalf of the International Republican Institute's Center for Insights in Survey Research by Independent Research Institute of Mongolia (IRIM).
- Data collection was conducted between March 01 - April 26, 2022 through computer-assisted telephone interviews.
- The sample consisted of n=2,500 residents of Mongolia aged 18 and over, with access to a mobile phone.
- A multi-stage probability sampling method was used to design a nationally representative sample. The contact information list of the households was compiled from the IRIM's internal database. The sample was stratified by region and by urban/rural residency, followed by random selection of primary sampling units (PSUs) within each stratum. Households were selected by simple random sampling, and respondents were selected by the last birthday method.
- The data was weighted by gender and age groups based on the NSO data for population of Mongolia.
- The response rate was 19 percent.
- The margin of error for the full sample is  $\pm 1.9$  percent.
- Charts and graphs may not add up to 100 percent due to rounding.

About the Center for Insights In Survey Research (CISR)

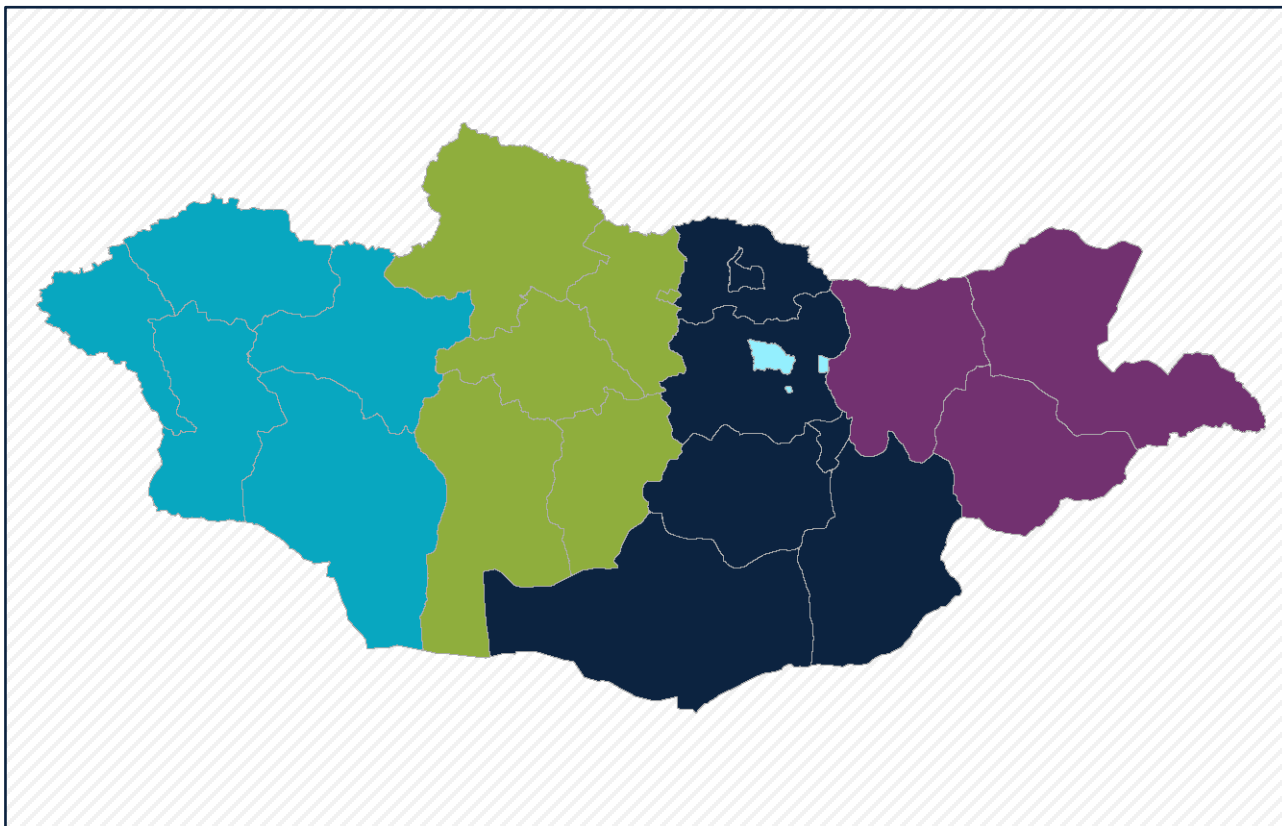

Research and qualitative and quantitative public opinion data is a cornerstone of IRI's approach to programming. Our data ensures citizens' needs are at the center of the political debate and guide our projects' goals. To date, IRI has conducted more than 1000 polls in over 100 countries, surveying more than 1.5 million people and measuring community attitudes on a wide range of issues.

IRI's research approach integrates CISR's methodological polling best practices protocol and field partner in-depth knowledge of the local research environment. This close collaboration begins at project design, with carefully calibrated sampling and instrument development, and continues throughout the entire fieldwork cycle to ensure in the collection of reliable qualitative and quantitative data.
